A 13-year-old Negro boy, Richard Turentine, was fatally injured about 9 a. m. Wednesday in a two-truck collision near Hope City limits on the Rocky Mound road.

The youth was standing in the back of a pickup truck and was thrown into a ditch at the impact. He sustained a head injury and died shortly after a Herndon-Cornelius ambulance took him to a local hospital. Neither of the drivers were injured.

The collision involved a loaded, county-owned gravel truck driven by S. T. Hollis of Hope. The pickup was driven by Ervin McFadden, local Negro.

State Policeman W. T. Brewster said both vehicles were traveling east and the gravel truck was in process of passing when the pickup attempted to make a left turn. The County gravel truck hit the pickup on the left rear fender, the officer said.

Officers Brewster and Downing said no charges were filed.

Ranger Shot Thursday, U.S. Decides

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — The National Aeronautics and Space Administration changed signals today and tentatively rescheduled the Ranger 5 moon shot for Thursday, depending on the progress of tropical storm Ella.

The shot was wiped off the October launching schedule Tuesday night because of the threat posed by the storm, kicking up some 300 miles off the Florida coast.

A spokesman for the space agency said the weather forecast for the Cape tended to improve after the decision and that officials felt there might be a chance to launch the Atlas-Agena B rocket in the four-day period ending Friday when the moon is in a favorable position.

Because launch dates must be obtained in advance on the missile range, a time was obtained for Thursday.

The spokesman added that a better idea of Ella's progress will be available after the Weather Bureau storm advisory today.

When the threat of strong wind was indicated, officials made preparations to remove the moon rocket from the launch pad to the safety of a hangar if it became necessary.

One Killed in Explosion in Missouri

SENECA, Mo. (AP) — One person was killed and three others injured, one critically, in an explosion in a Seneca blacksmith shop today.

Killed was Paul Higgenbotham, owner of the shop, one of the oldest in this Southwest Missouri area.

Charley Miller, an assistant in the shop, suffered the loss of both hands and a leg and is in critical condition.

Robert Marlow, route 2, Seneca, was taken to a hospital in Miami, Okla. Ben Braden, Kelleyville, Okla., who had just entered the blacksmith shop suffered facial cuts and did not require hospitalization.

Officials said the explosion occurred when Higgenbotham, who just recently went into semi-retirement, struck a piece of drill steel. The piece of steel apparently came from a mine and contained some explosive.

Limestone Driller Dies in Tunnel

BATESVILLE, Ark. (AP) — A limestone driller was killed in a mining tunnel near Batesville Tuesday night when he was struck in the head by falling rock.

The victim was Charley Clark, 47, of Dusha, near Batesville. He was working for the Arkansas Limestone Co. in a tunnel along the White River bluffs about 15 miles northwest of Batesville.

The following statement was issued by Hope Ministerial Alliance:

"To Our Community:
"The purpose of this newsletter is to clarify an action recently taken by the Hope Ministerial Alliance relative to activities at the various Halloween carnivals in our public schools.

"In the regular monthly meeting of the Ministerial Alliance it was brought to the attention of the group that the Halloween carnivals will be conducted by our local P.T.A. and school groups.

"The Reverend Joseph Geno was requested to represent the Alliance at the meeting of the Board of Education on Monday night, October 8, 1962, and to express the sentiments of the Alliance regarding all gambling in our public schools and specifically asking that gambling be banned at the Halloween carnivals.

"This action on the part of the Alliance is consistent with that which the Alliance took in October, 1960. The Alliance voted at that time to go on record with the following suggestions:

"(1) That the local P.T.A. and school group follow the stated policy of the National P.T.A. organization in discouraging gambling activity in carnivals sponsored by local school groups. This would specifically refer to cake walks and bingo games.

"(2) The Local Alliance would encourage the school board to so arrange tax support for the schools that the P.T.A.'s do not feel the strong need to be fundraising organizations. While funds are being raised, however, the Alliance would suggest such means as 'cake sales,' 'cake auctions' and other means which are above question in regard to raising monies to be used for the improvement of the local school program.

"The local Ministerial Alliance has no desire to dictate in matters of school policy. However, the group feels that it is in the best interest of every child in our community that these forms of activity employing gambling methods not be utilized in any school functions. The Alliance is eager to co-operate fully in any constructive efforts aiding our schools and in the betterment of our community."

U.S. Planes Fire at Red Guerrillas

By MALCOLM W. BROWNE

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP) — Four U.S. Army escort helicopters poured rocket and machinegun fire into a concentration of Communist guerrillas Tuesday, apparently with deadly effect.

The helicopters, recently sent from the United States, are designed to help neutralize the increasing Viet Cong guerrilla ground fire that has downed at least two planes in two days with the loss of three Americans.

The four heavily armed HU-1 helicopters were accompanying a battalion of Vietnamese soldiers 55 miles northwest of Saigon.

The Vietnamese had been landed to protect a U.S. helicopter forced down by mechanical trouble. It was necessary to destroy the helicopter, and lurking Viet Cong opened fire as the helicopters began lifting out the Vietnamese.

10% Cotton Acreage Cut by 1963

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Arkansas cotton farmers can expect a 10 per cent decrease in cotton allotments for 1963, but their acreage could go up if Congress passes new cotton legislation early next year.

Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman set the 1963 acreage allotments at the minimum permitted by law Monday. That's 16 million acres. But he said he hopes Congress will permit an increase.

Last year the national allotment was 18,001,718 and there was 100,000 acres in a reserve for small farms.

The 1963 allotment carries a 310,000-acre reserve, or a total of 18,310,000 acres to 18,101,718 acres last year.

The state Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service said state allotments might be handed down from Washington some time next week. The basic national allotment of 60 per cent less indicates the state decrease is required.

The allotment set by the secretary is not expected to be final because of the possibility of new legislation. But the state ASCS office must go ahead and draw up county allotments in line with Freeman's initial allotment.

And county ASCS offices must draw up individual farm allotments based on the state office's figures.

The allotment is the smallest set for the crop since cotton contracts were first authorized in 1938. Freeman said establishing the minimum allotment would give Congress maximum flexibility in determining acreage provisions in new legislation. And he added, the administration will push the new program early in the next session of Congress.

Figures on Local Municipal Airport Called Unrealistic

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two airports in Arkansas were included in a study in which the comptroller general concluded that the program for disposing of surplus airports contains deficiencies.

In a report to Congress, the comptroller general said the disposal program of the Federal Aviation Agency did not assure that local agencies would carry out the obligations they undertook when given the airports.

Airports at Hope and Stuttgart were included in the study made by the general accounting office.

The report said that three years after conveying the 2,400-acre airport to Stuttgart, the FAA gave up its right to require that income from the property be used for airport purposes and permitted the airport to become a source of financial benefit to the community.

The airport, which cost the government $10,479,000, was given to Stuttgart Jan. 10, 1949. The report said the agreement provided that revenue from the area should go for the improvement and operation of the airport.

But, the report said, the city leased the airport in 1952 to an operator for $15,000 a year which the FAA approved. By giving its approval, GAO said, FAA relinquished substantial control over revenues from the property and the city earned $117,500 through 1959, "none of which was required to be used for airport purposes."

In the case of Hope, the report said, the FAA relied on "unrealistic financial information" in determining that additional land was needed by the city to provide revenue for the airport.

Hope acquired the 2,220-acre airport in 1947 and in 1949. It cost the government $3,256,000.

The report said that in 1947 the city estimated it would obtain revenues of $33,659 from the airport and would have expenses if $32,150. But it said, the city actually had average annual revenues of $3,693 and expenses of $1,815.

"This wide variance between the estimated average annual operating results and the actual average annual results...casts some doubt on the reasonableness of the city's estimate of the airport's operating results," GAO said. It added that FAA files do not indicate the agency made any attempt to determine the reasonableness of the estimated operation.

It concluded that FAA should verify such estimates and follow up to see how the property is used in order to see that "the purposes of the transfer are met by the grantee."

Freeman set marketing quotas on the coming crop and set Dec. 11 as a date for a grower referendum on them. Approval by two-thirds of the growers voting is required.

Barnett Says Actions Based on His Beliefs

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Gov. Ross Barnett of Mississippi says his actions in the University of Mississippi desegregation case are based on "what I believe to be the law" and that he is not in contempt of any court.

His statement, issued Tuesday in Jackson, Miss., came as the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals considered whether to imprison or fine him. Earlier, it had found him guilty of civil contempt for his refusal to permit Negro James H. Meredith to enroll at Ole Miss.

There was no indication when the court would rule.

The Justice Department has asked the court to fine Barnett $100,000 for failing between court hearings Oct. 2 and 12 to take positive action to purge himself of contempt. It also asked an additional fine of $10,000 a day starting Oct. 12 until he does so.

Barnett's attorney, Charles Clark, told the court the governor did not consider himself in contempt, because Meredith was attending the university.

"I have never taken the position that I have purged myself," Barnett said Tuesday. "Nor have I authorized anyone to take such a position on my behalf."

He added, "My position is that I have upheld the law and am not in contempt of any court."

Barnett also said: "My position is based upon the Constitution of the United States and the constitution and laws of Mississippi. My every decision in this matter has been formed after careful and deliberate consideration of what I believe to be the law."

Barnett failed to appear, and did not send his attorneys, to the Sept. 28 hearing at which he was convicted of contempt.

In another development Tuesday, attorneys for former Maj. Gen. Edwin A. Walker asked U.S. Dist. Judge Claude Clayton to revoke his order that Walker undergo a psychiatric examination.

Walker, arrested during the riots here, is free in $50,000 bond on the condition he undergo a mental test to see if he is mentally competent to stand trial on leading an insurrection.

Meanwhile, Meredith continued his increasingly uneventful attendance at Ole Miss.

President to Return to Political War

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy dashes back to the political wars today, and the big question is whether he will decide to shoot it out verbally with his predecessor, Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Kennedy was scheduled to leave in mid-afternoon for Connecticut, where he will say kind words for his former welfare secretary, Abraham Ribicoff, who is running for the Senate.

Of far more interest is this: Will there be unkind words of reply to Eisenhower? The former president, in a tone unusually bitter for him, said Kennedy has what he called "a dreary foreign policy."

"Too sad to talk about," Eisenhower said in a Boston speech Monday night.

Miffed at Kennedy's criticisms of his Republican administration, Eisenhower said:

"I doubt that anyone can persuade you that in the past 21 months there has been anything constructive on foreign relations to equal any part of that eight-year (Republican) record."

Kennedy has been exceptionally careful never to tangle with Eisenhower. Throughout the 1960 campaign he bore down on Republicans in general and Richard M. Nixon, the GOP candidate, in particular.

Eisenhower escaped direct criticism — even drew some praise.

Since Kennedy won without attacking Eisenhower personally, he will be reluctant to change tactics now.

But with Eisenhower acting increasingly like the No. 1 Republican spokesman, Kennedy may be sorely tempted. Certainly he may be forced to make a more spirited defense of his foreign policy, which he has skipped over lightly during this drive to elect more Democrats to Congress.

Connecticut is thought to offer fertile soil for Kennedy's efforts. Democrats now hold four of the six House seats and hope they can pick up another.

swept into action, their 16 powerful rockets and two 30-caliber machineguns blazing.

Reports said the helicopter fire hit a column of about 75 guerrillas.

Further north, a civilian spotter plane crashed Tuesday in the central highlands where increasing guerrilla ground fire had shot down two other planes.

Officials were tight-lipped about the nature of the plane or the identification of the pilot injured in the crash.

The craft was one of a fleet of unmarked planes performing intelligence work in South Viet Nam. They include a variety of light planes and L28s, DC4s and D1s.

Reports recently have told of better fire from the jungles and hills in central Viet Nam, and a Viet Cong guerrilla anti-aircraft team was said to have arrived in the area.

Fire Damages L.R. Building

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Fire in a two-story downtown building Tuesday night resulted in heavy water and smoke damage to two retail shops and slight damage to two others.

Three hook and ladder units and four pumper crews fought flames for almost an hour before the fire was brought under control.

No one was injured. No property damage estimate was immediately available.

National Shirt Shops and Mangels, a ladies ready-to-wear store, bore the brunt of smoke and water damage. Kempeners, a shoe store, and Scher Jewelers, also were damaged.

Fire Chief Gun Nalley said the fire apparently started from defective wiring in the space between a false lower-story ceiling and the second floor.

Actual fire damage was confined to the second floor of Mangels.

The building is on the northwest corner of Capitol and Main.

JFK, German Minister Discuss Plan

WASHINGTON (AP)—West German Foreign Minister Gerhard Schröder discussed the question of Berlin with President Kennedy today and reported they reached "very good and complete agreement."

Leaving a 90-minute conference with Kennedy, he told newsmen that as a result of three days of talks with U.S. officials, "We find ourselves in agreement on the assessment of the Berlin situation and on the methods to be applied to meet the situation."

His talk with Kennedy, he said, "completes my conversations in Washington."

Kennedy accompanied his guest to the White House lobby, then seeing the unusually large crowd of reporters, withdrew with a smile.

Schröder, who appeared relaxed, said his visit served "to prepare the visit the chancellor (Konrad Adenauer) will make here upon the invitation of your President." Adenauer is due Nov. 7. Schröder will be with him.

Then, Schröder added, "We will have another opportunity to review our plans."

Schröder was asked whether he foresees any new initiative the West might take as a result of his visit.

"Everything that has been done up to now will go on," Schröder replied, indicating he sees no need for new initiative.

There were some smiles when a reporter asked him whether he thought Kennedy has the "proper degree of firmness and flexibility" to deal with the Berlin situation.

"I don't want in any way to utter an opinion but you may rest assured that all who are interested take a firm stand on Berlin," Schröder replied.

Schröder declined to say specifically what subjects were discussed with Kennedy. He did say, in response to a question, that the time was too short to go into the problem of the Common Market. Schröder is understood to have warned administration officials that the East German regime, with Russian backing, may try to impose new control over civilian traffic moving into Berlin from West Germany.

Schröder, here since Sunday is seeking Allied support for rejection of such a move.

It is not yet clear what retaliatory action West Germany and its allies could take. Officials indicate there has been some talk of an economic boycott if the East German demand regular diplomatic visas for travel to Berlin across their territory.

The meeting is the first in a series of talks the President plans on the Berlin situation. He will receive Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko Thursday. Then on Nov. 7, the day after the congressional elections, West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer will open consultations here with Kennedy.

Meanwhile, Foy D. Kohler, the new U.S. ambassador to Moscow, conferred Tuesday with Khrushchev in the Russian capital. It was believed certain Berlin was high on the agenda.

A brief communique issued after the session said the talk was held in an atmosphere of sincerity and mutual understanding. "They touched important international issues and also questions of Soviet-American relations," the communique said.

State Department officials in Washington are now studying Kohler's report.

Kennedy, Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara all foresee the probability of extremely dangerous East-West confrontations over Berlin by the end of the year, though they are not quite sure how the crisis may develop. One possibility is that Khrushchev will sign his long-threatened separate peace treaty with East Germany and claim that this gives the Red German regime sovereign control over the supply lines to Berlin. It is in this connection that the so-called visa issue becomes most significant.

Long Way to Top, Terry Made It

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—It's a long way to the top of the baseball world.

Ralph Terry, the New York Yankees' right-hander, reached the high point of the road Tuesday in Candlestick Park as a line drive off the bat of Willie McCovey of the San Francisco Giants rocketed into the glove of Yankee second baseman Bobby Richardson for the final out in the seventh game of the 1962 World Series.

A foot either way, and . . . but it was not a foot either way, and the Yankees won the game 1-0, and the World Series 4 games to 3. "He hit a good pitch good," Terry said. "The rest was in somebody else's hands."

As he sat in the Yankees' dressing room, he said, "What an ending. What a perfect ending. F. O. That's how close the two teams were in every respect in this Series."

Then he thought a bit, and added in his soft voice: "This is a personal triumph. It wipes away two years of worry, two years of doubt."

In 1960, he compiled a 10-8 record, but wound up with a "goat" label when Bill Mazeroski's homer beat the Yankees in the Series. Working in relief, Terry threw two pitches in the bottom of the ninth inning of the seventh game of that series, and Mazeroski hit the second one for a home run that won for the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Terry snapped back from that terrible moment, and went on to win 23 games, high in the league, for the Yankees this season.

But he never forgot it. They wouldn't let him. "I got an anonymous letter from Pittsburgh only this morning," he said, "reminding me of Mazeroski, and saying I would throw another ball like that today."

"And I could hear people yelling at me in the stands, especially late in the game, about Mazeroski."

Bank Robber Is Judged Sane

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—A Jonesboro handyman charged with robbing the Gillett branch of the DeWitt Bank & Trust Co., has been released from the State Hospital and returned to the Arkansas County Jail at DeWitt.

Sheriff Harold Woodson said Lester Kostner, 48, was released Saturday after hospital officials reported their findings inconclusive.

Mrs. Dorothy Smith, branch manager, was alone in the bank when the armed robber entered and forced her to hand over $800. The man then locked her in the bank vault, where she was discovered an hour and 20 minutes later.

The FBI arrested Kostner several days later in DeWitt, where he had been living in a trailer for about two weeks.

U.S. Trying to Get Off High Test

HONOLULU (AP)—The United States is wasting no time trying to redeem its slumping nuclear prestige by scheduling another high-altitude shot in the Pacific this weekend—just four days after the latest flop.

A low-yield nuclear device with a punch of less than 20,000 tons of TNT is set to be touched off at an expected height of 20 to 30 miles near Johnston Island.

As in previous tests, it will be carried aloft by a missile. But this time the vehicle probably won't be a Thor, the cause of four previous failures in the trouble-plagued 1962 Pacific nuclear series.

Indications were a specially constructed booster utilizing the motor from a surface-to-surface Sergeant missile would loft the payload to its firing altitude.

The detonation planned for firing during a five-hour period starting at 9:30 p.m. EST Friday (2:30 a.m. EST Saturday). It will be the smallest attempted at high altitudes thus far.

The latest fire occurred Monday night. The Thor rocket lifted off its concrete launch pad at Johnston on schedule and was heading on a predetermined trajectory to the detonation point. Halfway there the rocket developed a malfunction and a range safety officer pushed a button, destroying the rocket and its nuclear payload without detonation.

It was the first reported case of radioactive debris dropping back on the island, although Johnston was peppered with fragments after a June 19 failure. Officials said nothing about radioactivity at that time.

"Most of the fragments showed some alpha contamination," an official announcement said of sites on the lake.

Dear Helen: My youngest brother and I are on conflict with a sister-in-law over a problem which concerns us all—our parents. I am the only girl in a family of seven children. When my six brothers and I were very young, our mother lost her mind. Father ducked responsibility by placing us in a home. Eighteen years later Mama regained her reason and she and Papa went back together. By then my brothers and I were earning our own living (I've worked since I was nine) so didn't need their help, nor did they offer it. As I live nearby they send for me often. I go willingly though more from sense of duty than love.

Now here is our problem: Papa has had two serious operations and is not supposed to lift a hand. My elder brothers, remembering the past, refuse to help, but my youngest brother and I feel differently. However, having families of our own, there is a limit to what we can do. So we suggested that Papa and Mama sell their seven-room house and five acres of ground and go into a rest home.

Our sister-in-law calls us a couple of ingrates. "Rest homes are a purgatory on earth," she said. "You and your brother can go to hell—that will give you some idea of what those dumps are like. As long as I live your dear parents shall have a home with me." It sounds high-minded but, when it comes to the actual

Monday's debris. "Because of the rigid safety rules, no hazard to test personnel is anticipated."

Alpha is the least dangerous of radiation materials. It can be harmful if breathed or otherwise taken into the system as by eating. It will not penetrate the skin except through a cut or wound.

What the Bull Shreds Dam was being built, the government moved the entire town of Leal Hill to higher ground, and it is some alpha contamination," an official announcement said of sites on the lake.

doing, I'm the fall gal. Papa has always waited on Mother hand and foot. In addition to serious operations, he suffers from a weak heart and high blood pressure. Since he shouldn't do even housework, and Mama won't, my brother and I say the only place for them is a rest home. How can I convince the sister-in-law? —Nervous Wreck.

Dear Nervous: Why should your sister-in-law call the turn? You and your brothers, not she, are responsible for the welfare of your parents. However, while disagreeing with her right to take charge, I must say that I do question your decision about sending your parents to a rest home. They can be pretty dreary. If humanly possible, let your parents remain in their own home among familiar surroundings. I cried that I'd only been down at a neighbor's. He's not the kind to listen nor am I the sort to look after their parents. How about all seven of you chipping in to pay for a practical nurse and housekeeper?

Dear Helen: My brother and I hope you can settle an argument for us. We are both married. He claims that his wife and mine are not sisters-in-law. I say they are. Which of us is right? —Tom and Andy.

Dear Tom and Andy: You are right. Your brother's wife and yours are indeed sisters-in-law.

Dear Helen: I'm paying for an older sister's sins. Because of the trouble she got into my parents have banned my boy friend. If I so much as mention a date, they say, "See what happened to your sister," then clam up. Tonight my father beat me black and blue because he thought I'd been out with my boy friend. In vain I cried that I'd only been down at a neighbor's. He's not the kind to listen nor am I the sort to look after their parents. How about all seven of you chipping in to pay for a practical nurse and housekeeper?

press yourself can be a curse. Until you and your parents can communicate with one another there will always be trouble. Ha, your father been articulate enough to talk things over he never would have resorted to that beating. Break the barrier by drawing him into conversation at meals. Be interested in what he is doing. Encourage him to discuss his hobbies. Pay attention to his opinions. Be a listener as well as a talker yourself. Treat him as a friend, not enemy. Once his confidence is gained, communication will be established and the wall between you destroyed.

Send your problem to Helen Worden Erskine. Be sure to enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope and address her care of this newspaper. Helpful letters available. Write for "Cautious Parents."

Just Visiting and His Life Was Changed

By JOY MILLER
AP Women's Editor

NEW YORK (AP)—What would you do if your doorbell rang, and when you answered there stood a ragged urchin wanting to come in just to look around?

It happened to Josef Berger four years ago. His life hasn't been the same since.

On that first visit the ragged urchin absorbed every inch of the Berbers' comfortable living room and said: "It's heavenly here." This was Berger's introduction to Poppo.

Berger stuffed the scrawny, year-old Poppo (from left) with as much food as he thought safe, then told him he was a writer and couldn't work with anyone around. But Poppo could come again—sometimes.

Poppo did. The next day, that began the regular visits.

Then came the day, a few months later, when Poppo announced: "Joe, I want you to be my father."

This understandably did not arouse much enthusiasm in Berger or his wife, Debbie, an attractive couple in their fifties with a married daughter and a granddaughter they adored. They were quite happy as they were, Josef writing books and speeches, Debbie working as chief researcher for a magazine for doctors.

But they hadn't reckoned on the determination of a child from a poverty-stricken, broken home who wanted something better from life. At that time Poppo was living, along with a brother and four sisters, in one of the remaining slum houses in otherwise well-to-do Brooklyn Heights. And although he was deeply attached to his pretty young mother, he fastened on to the Berbers with fierce affection.

They resisted, but last fall when Poppo was 9, they took him into their home on a trial basis before legally adopting him.

"For three months," says Berger, "he lived with us. He tried very hard to be what he called 'a member of the family.'"

But after weekends with his mother, who had moved with the children to another section of Brooklyn, he would come back to the Berbers and eat his heart out to be with her again.

"It was tearing him apart," says Berger. "It was his decision to go back. But there was no decision really. It was like a fish going back to where it was born."

That was nearly a year ago—and that's where a book Berger wrote about the experience and called "Poppo" ends.

But the book, just published and with part of its royalties slated for a trust fund for the boy's education, doesn't end the story of Poppo. He still visits the Berbers on weekends.

Things Heard on Office Grapevine

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Does the company president wear a hairpiece?

Is the executive vice president dating his secretary on the side?

Will the firm give a Christmas bonus this year? Are there plans to move the company to a new city?

Such rumors and reports constantly circulate on "the office grapevine," that unofficial escalator of truth, gossip and wild misinformation which operates in every business organization having more than three employees.

The office grapevine has some what the stature of astrology. Most people deny they believe in it, but they are more than willing to hear what it has to say—particularly if it affects them.

For years industrial leaders have regarded the office grapevine as a disturbing nuisance, and some have sought ways to stamp it out—only to find it has more roots than a poison ivy plant.

Now a social scientist arises to say that "is the most disastrous mistake an executive can make."

Defending the office grapevine as more of a boon than a bane is Dr. Hideya Kumata, Michigan State University sociologist.

"Productivity is greater when there is no grapevine, but is it worth it to sacrifice the employees' identification with the company's aims?" he told a recent leadership conference.

"By attempting to stamp out the office grapevine, you destroy morale."

Dr. Kumata then gave this helpful hint to executives: Make positive use of the existing grapevine by passing on their own ideas to "opinion leaders" within the office.

The grapevine isn't restricted to business firms. It is a characteristic of all social organizations.

You will find it in every army, fraternal lodge, monastery, Boy Scout camp, classroom or PTA.

Whether the grapevine is right or wrong makes no real difference. As long as people like to guess and speculate about possibilities, the grapevine will continue to grow and spread its mixed burden of suspicion, hearsay and truth.

NAACP Asks More Jobs for Negroes

WASHINGTON (AP)—The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People has launched legal actions it said are aimed at getting equal hiring, promotion and other jobs rights for Negroes.

Robert L. Carter, NAACP general counsel, announced Tuesday that proceedings filed in San Francisco, Atlanta and St. Louis seek to eliminate alleged job discrimination in unions of seamen, steel workers and railroad trainmen.

Carter said the NAACP will file more court actions and proceedings before the National Labor Relations Board "in the very near future."

He said the breaking of racial barriers in jobs and in schools "will go a long way toward eliminating racial discrimination in the United States."

Amendment Gives Cities Taxing Power

(Editor's note: This is the first of a series of articles discussing constitutional amendments and acts to be voted on in the Nov. election.)

By JOHN R. STAR
LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Proposed Constitutional Amendment 50 may seem familiar to voters who study the Nov. election ballot.

The measure has provisions of two amendments proposals which were defeated in the 1960 election. These are relaxation of restrictions on the taxing power of cities and removal of constitutional maximums of salary of city officials.

The salary provision was included two years ago in an amendment covering all elected officials — county, state and city. State and county officials have their own amendment going this year.

But, where the 1960 proposal set a limit of $10,000 on municipal salaries, the new proposal has no top. A city official may be paid whatever the governing body of the municipality wants to pay him. The main interest in Amendment 50, however—the point that has the Arkansas Municipal League four-square behind it—is the tax change.

At present the constitution virtually limits cities to the property tax and state turnbacks for the bulk of their revenue. They collect certain fees, such as retail permits, building permits and parking meter fees, but they are not authorized to indicate taxing proposals per se.

And their power to collect property tax is limited to five mills for general purposes and five mills for capital improvements.

Amendment 50 not only takes the ceiling off the property tax, it authorizes the cities to initiate new taxes. A city could assess a municipal sales tax, a per capita tax, even an income tax.

It contains two safeguards. First no tax may be collected until the ordinance levying it is approved at a general election. Second, voters could move repeal of a tax after it is in effect by collecting signature of 15 per cent of qualified electors. This would place a repeal proposal on the next general election ballot.

The amendment states that if a tax proposal is defeated, it cannot be resubmitted for two years. Likewise if a repeal proposal loses the tax will remain in effect for two years. This wording was unnecessary, since general elections come two years apart.

To guarantee that tax collected under its provisions are not diverted, the amendment states clearly that the city council must state the purposes for which the tax is being collected and it cannot be used for any other purpose.

For example, a tax levied for streets could not be spent on sewers, and vice versa.

Proponents of the amendment contend it is a dire need because most cities are hamstrung by inadequate revenues. They point out that it is permissive and any tax increase would have to be approved by voters.

In short, they contend, the amendment would give residents of each city power to determine how much they want to pay for municipal services and capital improvements.

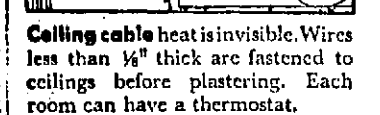

Opponents voice fear of giving city councils a virtual carte blanche in the field of taxation. They also take issue with a provision that requires only one publication of the proposal.

Speakers at the recent Municipal League convention warned that the cities must get this

BASIC SYSTEMS OF ELECTRIC HOUSE HEATING

Wall panel heaters have heating coils behind a decorative grill. Small fans may be used with this thermostatically controlled unit.

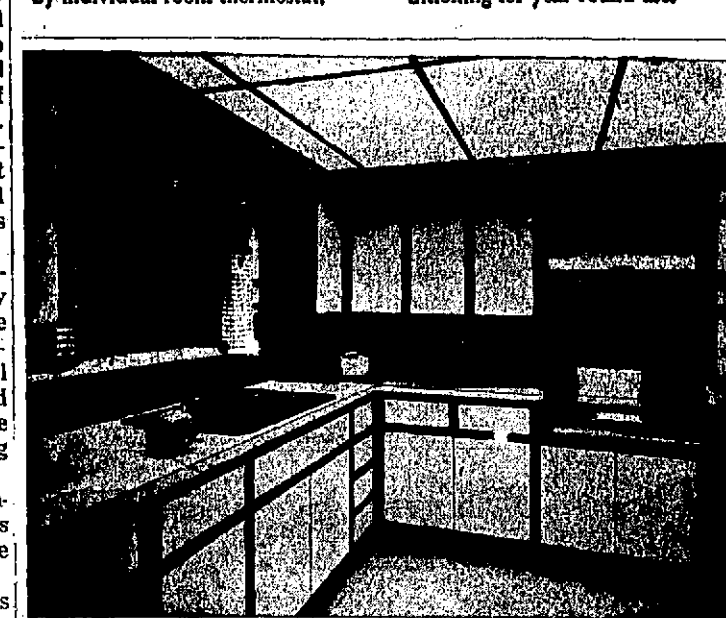

Heat pump heats home in winter, cools it in summer. It's automatically reversible and maintains any desired year-round temperature.

Baseboard units heat by both radiation and convection. All surfaces are warmed evenly, and control is by individual room thermostat.

Electric furnaces provide compact central heating systems which can be combined with central air conditioning for year-round use.

Panel lighting in the ceiling of this all-electric kitchen gives a pleasant daylight effect to the whole room, illuminating each work area without glare. The kitchen is in builder Sidney Cohen's "Idea Home" in St. Petersburg, Fla. Other Gold Medal features are the automatic electric range with surface units in slide-out section below eye-level oven, built-in automatic electric dishwasher, electric refrigerator-freezer (not shown) mixer unit built into counter, and ample outlets for electric housewares.

amendment adopted this year because they aren't likely to get another chance anytime soon.

The amendment, like its 1960 sister is one of three each regular legislative session is authorized to put on the ballot. It took some finesse and a great deal of force to get 1961 lawmakers to resubmit a taxing proposal after defeat of the 1960 offer. The 1963 Legislature would take a dim view of bringing the proposal back for a third straight time.

City officials have contended, and they hope they are right, that the 1960 amendment was defeated in a backwash of opposition to a school closing amendment which was on the same ballot.

And perhaps overconfidence hurt proponents of the 1960 measure. It was generally believed that it would be approved and not much concerted effort was exerted in its behalf.

The cities didn't make the same mistake this year. They've been working hard. The issue this time is clear cut.

And the voters will decide whether they're willing to pay higher taxes for "home rule."

Injuries Fatal

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
STAMPS, Ark. (AP)—Leroy Patterson, a 28-year-old Negro from Lewisville, died at Stamps Monday of injuries suffered Sunday in a two-car collision on a rural road near Lewisville. Police said Patterson's car and one driven by R. E. Massey, 36, also of Lewisville, collided.

No Racial Issue Was Involved

FLORENCE, S. C. (AP)—Mayor David H. McCloud says in the quiet aftermath of a riot by 400 to 500 Negroes that no racial issue was involved.

Rock throwers prowled the streets of the Negro section Saturday night, breaking windows and overturning cars, after roughing up a Negro policeman who was arresting a Negro woman fighting in a night club.

No rioters were injured in the 90-minute disturbance. A 7-year-old girl was treated at home for shock after a car in which she was riding was hit by stones.

The mayor said in a statement Sunday that police, who estimated 400 to 500 persons were involved, had no great difficulty in controlling the mob. He said 400 to 500 is a normal number of persons to congregate in that area on a Saturday night.

"Race relations in Florence are excellent and we intend to keep them that way," he added.

Florence, in the tobacco and farming area of southeastern South Carolina, has 15,000 Negroes in its population of 35,000.

The first settlement in Cross county was near Wittsburg, in 1798.

Negro Makes His Greatest Progress

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP)—The Negro in America has made more progress in the past 25 years—toward equal treatment with whites—than in the rest of this country's history. He still has a long way to go, both in the North and the South.

Only about 25 per cent of Negroes eligible to vote in 11 Southern states have been registered to do so.

Only about one-third of the public school districts in the 17 Southern and border states have been desegregated to some degree. And Negroes frequently complain of discrimination in some Northern school districts.

A little more than half the tax-supported colleges and universities in the 17-state Southern and border area have been desegregated in practice or principle.

Yet the constitutional provisions to give Negroes undiscriminated equal treatment in voting and the usual spheres of living have been on the books almost 100 years, the 14th and 15th Amendments.

But the Supreme Court in the latter part of the 19th century boiled the meaning out of these protections for the Negro.

In 1896 it handed down a famous decision saying it was all right to segregate Negroes so long as they got treatment equal to that of whites. It was the doctrine of separate but equal.

It was too much for one justice, John M. Harlan, who protested in a dissenting opinion "our Constitution is color blind." It was to be 58 years before the men on the Supreme Court of another day—1954—agreed with Harlan and reversed the ruling of 1896.

The first chipping away at the 1896 decision came in 1917 in a decision which for some odd reason has been generally ignored in books on the court.

That year the court knocked out a Louisville city ordinance separating white and Negro residential districts because, the court said, it denied Negroes the equal protection guaranteed by the 14th Amendment of 1868.

But this didn't really jolt segregation. The jolts began in 1938 when Missouri, which had no law school for Negroes, refused to let a Negro enter the state's white law school.

The court—harping back to that separate but equal doctrine of 1896—said Missouri was treating the Negro unequally when it barred him from the white school without providing him with one for Negroes.

The court didn't say segregating the Negro in a Negro school was unlawful.

In short, it still stuck to 1896. Other decisions of this nature followed, with the court always ducking the central question: Isn't segregation by its very nature unequal under the 14th Amendment?

The court finally faced the question in 1954 when, in one of its truly momentous decisions, it ordered public schools desegregated with a ruling that knocked out the 1896 decision completely by saying separate means unequal. Many other steps followed in many fields, always slowly.

The court has ruled out segregation on buses and trains.

Congress in 1957 and 1960, for the first time in this century, passed civil rights laws to give Negroes more protection, especially in voting.

Some of the picture as it is now follows in figures provided by the Justice Department, the U.S. Civil Rights Commission and private sources:

Voting—about 1,400,000 Negroes, out of 5,045,000 eligible, have been registered to vote in 11 Southern states.

Public schools—About 960 school districts—out of 3,047 with white and Negro students in 17 Southern and border states—have now been desegregated to some degree. This fall 46 additional districts opened with some desegregation. Only four of them were under court order to desegregate.

Colleges and universities—of the 285 tax-supported schools on this level in the 17 states about 155 have been desegregated in practice or principle.

Eating facilities—About 110 Southern cities have at least one establishment that has desegregated eating facilities. In some cities, like Atlanta, desegregation has extended to other areas, like department stores, chain stores and some restaurants.

Hotels—Many Southern hotels now accept Negroes.

Employment—Equal opportunity for Negroes in employment hasn't made much progress.

City police and fire departments—About 560 Negroes are employed in Southern city police and fire departments in uniform. There

Communists Strip Red of His Power

VIENNA, Austria (AP)—The Hungarian Communist party has stripped Vice President Gyorgy Marosán of his powers in an apparent continuation of a high-level purge.

Marosán, 53, was reported jailed under the Stalins in 1950, but bounced back into the government of the late Imre Nagy in 1956. He claimed responsibility for calling in Soviet troops to crush the 1956 revolution.

A party announcement broadcast by the Budapest radio Sunday said Marosán had been guilty of "fractionalism" and violation of party discipline. Unlike some purge victims, Marosán is being given a pension. No successor was announced.

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—Red China and India are reported moving reinforcements to the disputed border area on India's northern frontier where sharp fighting erupted last Wednesday.

Visitors Were Pleased to Return Home

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Those that came were tremendously impressed and those who couldn't come wanted a second chance to see the state's progress.

This was the reaction of the 45 persons who were part of a project Arkansas at Large sponsored last week by the state Chamber of Commerce and the Arkansas Industrial Development Commission.

Industrialists, bankers, financiers and businessmen were brought to Little Rock for a banquet and get-together session, then toured the state to see its progress.

Winthrop Rockefeller, chairman of the AIDC, said the guests were invited from an original list of over 500 names of prominent Arkansians who made names for themselves in the business world in other states.

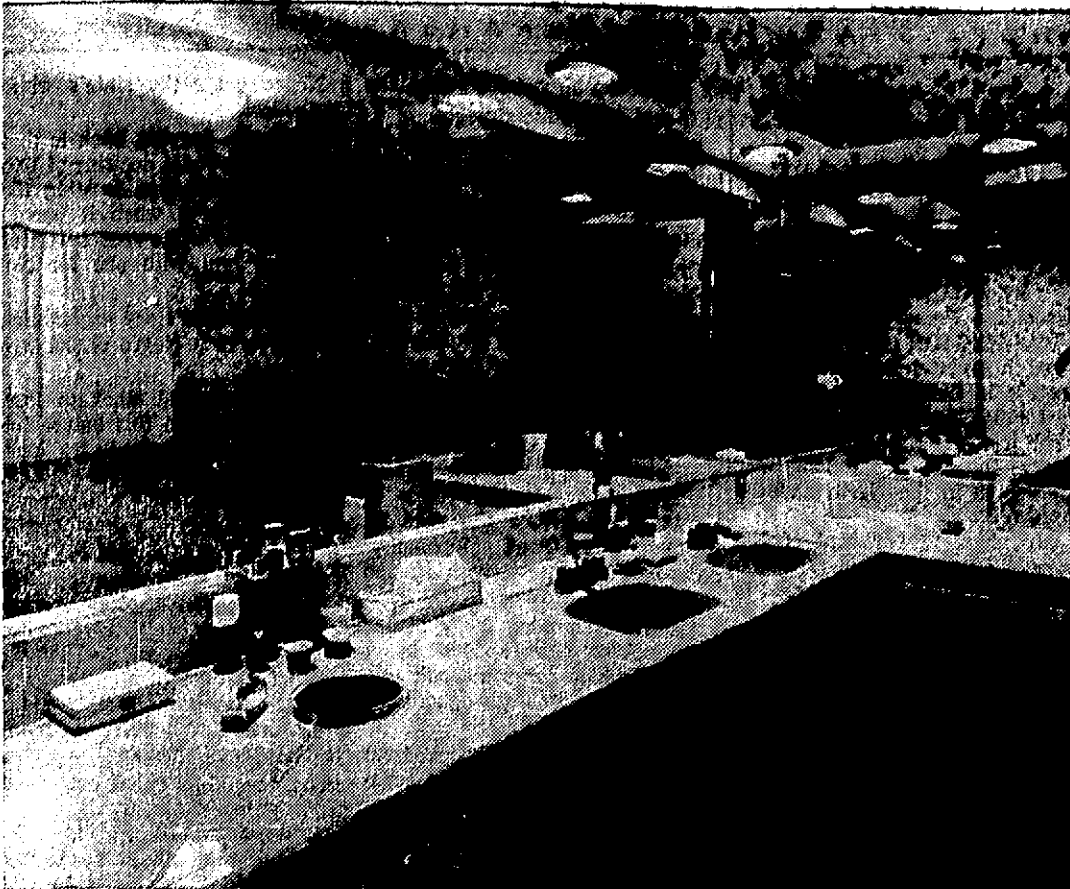

"We had copies of the Arkansas Encyclopedia on hand," Rockefeller said, "and asked the four members if they would like one. All 45 accepted." The encyclopedia is put out by the AIDC.

Rockefeller said persons invited who couldn't make the tour wrote saying if ever another such tour was held they would appreciate a second invitation.

"If the chamber wants to sponsor another tour," Rockefeller said, "I would be glad to participate."

He said he felt one reason for the success of the tour was the time allowed members to drive around and see the state. Rockefeller said the guests were not herded through a series of plants hurriedly.

"It gave them a good warm feeling that even though they were

By Clarence Budington Kelland

THE STORY: Columbine Pepper Drugget, sheltered secretary of a girls' school, has inherited a swank motel in Arizona and is on her way to take possession of it.

III

Until that moment, Columbine never had given special thought to the clothes she wore. Her life had been inside Miss Cordwainer's school, and its pupils had been uniformed. Of course she had seen elegantly dressed parents, but they had been in effect, visitors from Mars. Now this woman—this Madame Roxy—had spoken as if her hat and dress were something to be sneered at. Suddenly she was self-conscious, but also resentful. She busy away from the state, some of us were busy at home," he said.

swung toward Madame and scrutinized her.

"And I suppose," she said cuttingly, "it's—it's pretty snazzy to go parading around like a Christmas tree with a bonfire on top of it?"

The rector could not restrain a chuckle. The professor looked blank. Madame seemed for an instant to be on the point of bursting like a boiler. But then she gasped and released a bubbling series of chuckles.

"Darned if I didn't get my come-uppance!" she said delightedly. "What I get for opening my big mouth."

Artemus Thumb, patently annoyed by the hootless conversation, and desiring to call attention to himself, said, "Ahem" in a preemptory manner.

"My thesis," he said, "is to be entitled The Place of Primitive Magic in the Development of Agricultural Practices Among Pastoral Peoples."

"It will doubtless be a fascinating research," said the parson politely.

Columbine, greatly interested by these three so widely assorted individuals, studied them surreptitiously. The food she consumed had abated the feeling of elation that followed the consumption of her Scotch on the rocks. She felt acute and unusually intelligent.

"Nobody," interjected Madame Roxy firmly, "Asked me what I do to earn these gewgaws." She shook bracelets and rings at them.

"Well, I started in burlesque when I was slim and had a shape to do a strip-tease. Then I marry me a Texas oil man, name of Thistlebun, and he lasted 10 years and left me enough oil wells to buy me a jewelry store every Monday morning."

Of this, Artemus Thumb paid no attention. It was as if he had not heard it because he was so engrossed in his own thoughts.

"Are you aware," he asked in his dry-as-dust voice, "that in time of drought certain Serbians strip a maiden to the skin and dress her from top to toe in grasses and herbs? Attended by a troop of girls, she parades the village, whirling and dancing, and pausing before every house, whose housewife pours over her a pail of water. This is believed bring rain. Arizona is an arid country. I hope to find similar rites among its aborigines."

Columbine was not listening. She had become sure in her mind that the rector and the professor were acquaintances, though they took infinite pains to create the impression that they never had met before. She was not certain about Madame Roxy and reserved her opinion. She wondered why so erudite a man as Artemus Thumb and so gentle and unworldly a man as the rector would carry on such a pretense.

Columbine was more comfortable on the Golden State, for Mr. Hooper had been able to that train with none of the mechanical puzzles of a roomette. On the Phoenix car in which her compartment was located she saw, of the people she had met on the Century, only Prof. Artemus Thumb, who either did not remember her or pretended not to do so.

The pupils in the school had been too young to impart to her anything of the great mysterious outside world except some of its vocabulary. Now, as she was whirled through the country, she had leisure for the first time to think about her inheritance and to try to imagine what changes it would bring in her life.

For the first time the word "free" took on some personal meaning. She reflected upon it. She would be free. What would it mean to be free? She would not be commanded by bells ringing for this or that class or dismissal from class. The bells became a sort of symbol. There would be no bells. She compared herself with Miss Cordwainer. Miss Cordwainer was in command of a school. She, Columbine Pepper Drugget, would be in command of some kind of hotel. She would be able to issue commands as Miss Cordwainer issued commands.

And then, as every intelligent human being must do sooner or later, she made a shaking discovery. She discovered her own identity. And having discovered it, she pondered upon it. "I am myself," she said for the first time, "I am Columbine Pepper Drugget, and the only one there is."

Royal Fears His Team in for Battle

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—Coach Darrell Royal of Texas isn't sure his team can beat Arkansas Saturday night in the Southwest Conference's big game but he's positive about one thing.

"Anybody who has a ticket for this one better hold onto it," he declared. "This is going to be a great game. It's going to have everything you might want in football. I may not enjoy it but I certainly wouldn't miss it for the world."

Royal realized that this game could decide the championship although there still will be plenty of crucial contests to play.

Texas and Arkansas, who tied for the title last season, reach their battle this year with undefeated, untied records and both rated among the top teams in the country.

Royal was frank in saying he didn't think his team was as good outfit, much better than last year, said Royal. "I don't think we'll score much because we don't throw the ball. Arkansas though has a fantastic passing attack."

The coach was talking like he dreaded having to send his team against Arkansas, except that it was going to be such a good game he felt obligated to do it. He wants to see it, too, even if the result is painful.

Apparently there are about 100,000 more people who want to see it. Only 65,000 of them can get into the park, however, so Royal is fortunate—he'll get to watch it sitting on a bench that's pretty close to the action.

Educators Meet in Little Rock

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Educators who help shape the policies of the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools will meet in Little Rock today through Saturday to review accreditation criteria and draft proposed rules changes to be submitted to the general membership.

The NCA accredits schools in Arkansas and 18 other mid-western, southern and southwestern states.

Ed McCuiston, assistant state commissioner of education and host to the group, said an NCA body has not met in Arkansas since the state joined the association in 1924.

reasonable good defense this season. We just haven't moved the ball as well and the reason is pretty obvious. We miss Jim Saxton."

Royal also thought his team lacked speed, something he said Arkansas has plenty of.

"Arkansas is a great looking outfit, much better than last year," said Royal. "I don't think we'll score much because we don't throw the ball. Arkansas though has a fantastic passing attack."

The coach was talking like he dreaded having to send his team against Arkansas, except that it was going to be such a good game he felt obligated to do it. He wants to see it, too, even if the result is painful.

Market in Moderate Trading

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market edged to the upside in moderate trading early this afternoon.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .2 at 219.7 with industrials up 1.0, rails unchanged, and utilities off .3.

The gain was irregular, with a number of the popular volume leaders among "growth" stocks falling by the wayside.

A string of minor plus signs among chemicals, rubbers, oils, electrical equipments, and motors provided much of the fuel for the advance.

Building materials, utilities, aerospace issues, and steels tended to the downside.

Tennessee Gas Transmission continued to trade at a fractional loss.

Howe Sound rose a fraction. Corning Glass gained another point.

The usual market leaders were down—Polaroid and Xerox off a couple of points apiece, and IBM down . Korvette dropped a fraction.

Small fractional gains were posted for Big Three motors and American Motors. Studebaker was about unchanged.

U.S. Steel and Bethlehem were easy.

Du Pont, up about a point, paced chemicals to a string of small advances.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 1.80 at 591.49.

Corporate bonds were narrowly mixed. U.S. government bonds were unchanged to a shade higher.

Manhunt for Missouriian Spreading

CORNING, Ark. (AP)—A manhunt for an escaped Missouri convict spread to northeast Arkansas today and officers combed woods near Peach Orchard, 10 miles south of Corning in Clay County.

The escapee is Lawrence Noel Manley, 24, who was serving a term for burglary. He fled from the Jefferson City prison Monday.

Police said Manley apparently stole three cars and crossed into Arkansas Monday night. His home is near Doniphan, Mo., just north of the state line.

Arkansas State Police and Clay County officers were summoned to Peach Orchard Monday night by a man who told them a young man fitted Manley's description had hired him to take him to Paragould.

The man, whom police did not identify, said he agreed to do so and went into his home for his car keys and a pistol. When he came out, the other man fled into a wooded area.

Bloodhounds were brought into the area today to help with the search.

A car believed to have been stolen by Manley from Charles Brashler of Doniphan was found today near Peach Orchard. It contained loot from a Success, Ark. store which was burglarized Monday night.

Manley was seen Monday morning on Missouri State Highway A, south of Doniphan.

Wild Chase But Youths Arrested

HARRISON, Ark. (AP)—State Police said two Quincy, Ill., youths were arrested at a boat dock on Bull Shoals lake today after a harried six-hour chase on land and water.

State Trooper Sgt. Earl Rife said the two youths, Robert Glines, 19 and Robert Smith, 18, were taken to a Mountain Home jail for questioning.

The chase began, Rife said, after a pickup truck was stolen at Mountain Home early today. The truck was found abandoned in Gainesville, Mo., just across the state border.

Rife said the youths stole a car there and drove it to the Oakland boat dock on the north side of the lake in Exeter County.

They abandoned the car and took a 15-foot boat powered by an 18 horsepower outboard motor, Rife said, traveling several miles up the lake.

Rife said he and another trooper put a boat in the water at the 15 docks, near the Peel docks where the youths were picked up. They were caught, Rife said, when they stopped at the dock to get gas for the outboard.

11,011 More Votes in 65 Counties

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Prospective voters in 65 Arkansas counties have paid 11,011 more poll taxes than they did last year, state Auditor Jimmie Jones reported Monday.

With 10 counties unreported, the total for this year stands at 425,436.

Boone, Clay, Garland, Hot Spring, Jefferson, Lafayette, Madison, Prairie, Pulaski and Sebastian counties have not reported.

The latest counties reported, with increases or decrease in parentheses:

Bradley 5,134 (plus 9), Crittenden 7,750 (plus 363), Fulton 3,232 (less 164), Independence 7,666 (plus 209), Miller 11,116 (less 814), Montgomery 2,550 (less 110), Pope 8,502 (plus .081), Randolph 4,740 (plus 3), Scott 3,033 (less 83) and Searcy 4,483 (plus 1,579).

Negro Woman Perishes in Fire

HELENA, Ark. (AP)—Pearl Brown, a 65-year-old Negro woman who lived alone, burned to death when her home caught fire early today at Helena.

Firemen said they believed the victim had tipped over a coal-oil lamp kept beside her bed. They said the house was a mass of flames when the fire was discovered.

With a new Gold Medallion Home featuring a built-in double oven and separate electric cooking units, this homemaker has something to smile about. The double oven allows her to do a roast at one temperature while baking, broiling or warming food at another. Automatic timer and thermostat fire either from even-watching and assure foods that are consistently done to a turn. Surface cooking units are available that bring food to a boil then automatically reduce the heat to the chosen cooking level.

President to Soon Resume Campaign

By WHITNEY SHOEMAKER

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy catches his campaign breath for the next two days, then dashes off through eight states in another fire-building mission for 1962.

Kennedy landed in Washington early this morning from New York, where he had summoned U.N. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson to an hour's huddle on international objectives, after barnstorming five states on political objectives in November congressional and state elections.

Sprinting through New York, northern New Jersey, western Pennsylvania, Indianapolis, Louisville and Buffalo in the last three days, Kennedy demonstrated:

He is primarily interested in turning out a big vote on Nov. 6. He said in a television interview (ABC) that competition on the stump from former President Dwight D. Eisenhower—while Eisenhower's speeches "may not be so helpful," as he put it—will help arouse the electorate. Democrats outnumber Republicans in registration, he said, but Democrats "don't do so well" in pouring out on election day.

He is working for New Frontiersmen. He reckons on a 25 per cent defection of Democrats on crucial domestic votes. In Pittsburgh, he lumped conservative members of his party with Republicans as obstacles on key issues.

He's willing to endorse a Republican, as he did in Louisville. John Sherman Cooper, one of Kentucky's two GOP senators, rated a "distinguished" credit from Kennedy in the course of an at-

Two Arkansans Given Life

DUNCAN, Okla. (AP)—Two Arkansas men were sentenced to life in prison Monday after they pleaded guilty in district court to the slaying of a Duncan attorney.

John Dale Radley, 40, of Fort Smith and Richard Ellis, 27, of Van Buren entered the pleas before Judge Arthur Marmaduke.

The attorney, Kelsey C. Beauchamp Jr., was shot and stabbed to death in the yard of his home last Feb. 8.

Ellis said he and Radley had had heard Beauchamp carried large sums of money and they went to his home to rob him.

Ellis was arrested last week in eastern Oklahoma. He implicated Radley who at the time was being held on a forgery charge at Amarillo, Tex. Radley waived extradition and was returned to Duncan last Friday.

Rules Man Owes $10,890 Plus

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The Arkansas Supreme Court ruled today that Howard Thomason of Jonesboro owes $10,890 plus interest to a Blytheville trailer manufacturer.

The ruling said Thomason, who does business as College Trailer Sales, brought six trailers from Hester Mobile Home Manufacturers Inc. of Blytheville for a total of $19,240 paying $8,558 by check.

Thomason contends that he paid the remainder in cash to Charles Russell Hester, president of the mobile home company. Hester filed suit on May 31, 1961 alleging that he had never received the cash and asking a judgment against Thomason.

Craighead Chancery Court ruled in favor of Hester and directed Thomason to pay the $10,890 and six per cent interest from April 7, 1961 to Nov. 20, 1961, a total of 111,083.

Chief Justice Carlton Harris wrote the opinion on the appeal. The high court reversed another chancery decision in the case and directed that Hester be allowed the expense of obtaining the services of Linton Godown of Memphis, Tenn., who testified in the trial as an expert on questioned documents.

Youths Wanted in Two States

YELLVILLE, Ark. (AP)—Two Illinois teen-agers were held in the Marion County Jail today pending formal action on charges against them in Arkansas and Missouri.

The two, Robert Glines, 19, and Robert Smith, 18, both of Quincy, Ill., were arrested at a boat dock on Bull Shoals Lake Monday after they had led police on a six-hour chase in a stolen car and a stolen boat.

Prosecuting Atty. Joe Villines of Harrison said the two were wanted for robbing a man and stealing his pickup truck in St. James, Mo., then stealing another car near the Missouri-Arkansas state line.

He said they stole a boat at a boat dock on Bull Shoals lake and State Police chased them in another boat and finally caught them several miles up the lake.

It was not known immediately whether the pair would be turned over to Missouri officers or charged in Arkansas, Villines said. They left Quincy, Ill., Sunday and hitch-hiked to St. James, Villines said.

Rocket Firing Helicopters Are Used

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—Rocket-firing U.S. Army helicopters were used for the first time as an offensive weapon against Communist guerrillas during the weekend, an informal source said today.

Three of the turbine-powered machines were seen carrying out a blistering strike Sunday against a Viet Cong stronghold 55 miles northwest of Saigon.

The rotor carries 16 rockets and several machineguns—more firepower than any World War II fighter plane.

The role of the new craft is primarily to escort the lightly armed troop-carrying helicopters and to soften up objective areas with heavy firepower.

A high-level policy decision made them the first American aircraft to be authorized to attack the Viet Cong directly.

In the past, U. S. personnel have been under orders not to fire on the Viet Cong except in self-defense. The copters carry no national insignia or other marking. All are flown and maintained by U.S. Army men.

Targets are designated by Vietnamese officers.

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP)—Rival factions fighting for control of Yemen gave a conflicting picture today of military operations in the northern part of the little Red Sea country.

Spending Levels Off, Sales Dip

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—For the first time in months, Americans as a whole don't have more spending money in their pockets than they did last month. The leveling off in income total had been a comforting mainstay of an economy that had faltered a bit in other departments. The leveling off in spending money may help explain why retail sales also dipped unexpectedly. And it ties in with failure of employment to rise as hoped in many manufacturing industries.

The Commerce Department reports that personal income of individual Americans in September didn't rise above the August level.

This is the first time in eight months it hadn't risen. In fact, in the 19 months since the bottom of the last recession personal income had climbed each month except July 1961 and January 1962, when it dipped to the temporary alarm of chart watchers.

The September leveling off of personal incomes may be just as temporary. And the annual rate of $443 billion is still at a record high. Many economists expect renewed increases this month and next, along with a pickup in retail trade, and perhaps better performance by some of the basic industries.

None minimizes the importance of personal income totals in bolstering if not boosting the economy. This is true both in its current performance and in making the right climate for future growth.

The September faltering in personal incomes was laid to a drop

2 Categories for Arkansas Sportsmen

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Arkansas sportsmen fall into two general categories—those who like to hunt and fish and a group which loves fishing only.

Both groups favor autumn, a season which puts hunters in the field and also marks a sharp upturn in fishing success.

Angling is sometimes forgotten in the hubbub which accompanies squirrel, deer and duck seasons, and this suits the dyed-in-the-wool fisherman just fine.

Pleasant Porter of Little Rock, a close observer of fish habits, offers two reasons for improved fishing in autumn.

"When the water gets cooler, the fish get more active," he said. "They start feeding more in order to put on fat for the winter, when they are inactive."

Porter offered two tips which should improve an angler's chances:

"Watch for the schools of shad working. The chances are that either crappie or bass will be feeding on them. It also is a good idea to fish the shallow water, because bass are likely to be there looking for minnows."

Porter reported that he and other anglers have found the fishing much improved on Lake Maumelle recently.

Greers Ferry Lake is another spot which yielded good strings of bass lately. The new reservoir should continue to pay off the remainder of this fall.

Rivers also produce good fishing in the autumn, provided rains haven't brought on a big rise.

"My wife and I were fishing Cache River once," Porter said, "when we saw a school of shad moving downstream. I saw they were going to cross a riffle so I got set. Before long a bunch of Kentucky bass tore into the minnows and the action was fast. I caught a limit in short order, including a couple of doubles."

Many deer and squirrel hunters like to mix in some fishing while camping. After an early morning hunt, it is common practice to pick up fishing tackle and head for the water. It's not unusual to find the angling is better than the hunting.

GOPs Hope to Raise $100,000

BOSTON (AP)—Tonight's $100-plate birthday dinner for former President Dwight D. Eisenhower is expected to add half a million dollars to Massachusetts Republican's campaign war chest.

Some 5,000 members of the former president's party are expected at Commonwealth Armory to hear a 20-minute speech starting at 9:30 p.m.

After an earlier campaign appearance at Hartford, Conn., Eisenhower was scheduled to fly to Boston by private plane for an in wage and salary payments, especially in manufacturing. Even government payrolls slipped, though increases in this field usually go on year in and year out.

Offsetting the wage and salary drop was an equal rise in income from dividends, interest payments and government benefit checks.

The manufacturing payroll drop came despite longer work weeks in a number of industries.

Like most government statistics, the report on personal incomes is put forth as the best possible guess and reflects the seasonal changes in the general economy picture.

No Problem With This Elephant

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The Philadelphia Zoo, which already has several large hippos, rhinos and elephants, is getting a 37-ton elephant.

There won't be any problem feeding it, though. It's made of granite. When it arrives from Norway, where it was sculpted under commission from the Fairmount Park Commission, it will stand on the mall outside the zoo entrance.

afternoon arrival at Logan International Airport.

The former president, 72 Sunday, was expected to be greeted by Republican Gov. John A. Volpe; George Cabot Lodge, who is the GOP nominee for U. S. Senate, and the rest of the state ticket.

The general will stay overnight in his Boston hotel and fly to Manchester, N. H., Tuesday morning for a speech in that city. His plane will stop at Exeter, N. H., so he may visit his grandson, David, at Phillips Exeter Academy.

Columbia county was named for the Goddess of Liberty.

Cease Fire Signed

Denies Encroachment

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Southwestern Bell Telephone Co., denied in a brief filed Monday with the Public Service Commission that it has encroached on territory of Allied Telephone Co., by serving missile base sites in central Arkansas. Allied on Sept. 4 asked the PSC to make Bell stay out of its area.

Enough seeds were planted at two nurseries of the Arkansas State Forestry Commission in March, 1961 to provide 20 million seedlings for planting in Arkansas forests during the first three months of 1962.
